

Top ten reasons to migrate to CALNET NextGen

Customer guide

Attention California agencies: NASPO #1907 expires on March 31, 2021.

Verizon is proud to be a supplier under the CALNET contract, which provides easy access to our wireless telecommunications services. You can rely on CALNET for a faster procurement process, competitively sourced contracts and outstanding prices. And you can count on Verizon for reliable wireless services, flexible plans, responsive support and much more.

The CALNET NextGen contract brings you a full array of services, convenience and savings.

---

Why migrate to CALNET NextGen?

1. Beat the deadline.

The NASPO #1907 contract expires on March 31st 2021. If you don't migrate before the end of the year, you may miss out on discounts and procuring new wireless services.

2. Meet your contract requirements.

You may be required to transition from an expiring contract.

3. Retain your current Verizon Wireless plans.

Plans offered under NASPO #1907 can be migrated seamlessly onto CALNET NextGen, so you can be sure that the services you rely on will continue uninterrupted.

4. Put first responders first.

CALNET NextGen includes public safety plans for first responders. These plans provide priority and preemption voice and data capabilities designed to give first responders what they need to protect and serve the public.

5. Get access to new services.

Public safety entities—including fire, police and ambulance services—get additional access to the public safety plans and pricing under CALNET NextGen's Service Plan Sub-Category 19.2.

6. Get the speed, reliability and security of the Verizon network.

Verizon is a trusted partner for public safety and security. We invest billions of dollars every year to expand our network services and capacity—including more than $145 billion in network infrastructure since 2000. And we continue to invest to prepare for tomorrow's even more powerful networks. We complement our network expertise with proven experience in all areas related to wireless communication.

7. Rely on Verizon during emergencies.

The Verizon Response Team (VRT) is always on—and ready to support first responders, government agencies, nonprofit organizations and communities to help them stay connected during emergencies. VRT support includes loaner devices, network and power solutions, mobility solutions and a wide range of deployable assets for all conditions.

8. Stay protected.

When you partner with Verizon, you get the extensive security offerings that protect your communications, your people and your organization. In a time when the public sector is experiencing more and more threats and breaches—from ransomware to distributed-denial-of-service (DDoS) attacks—security matters.

9. Experience Verizon support.

If you've worked with Verizon before, you know that we take exceptional care of our customers. We are ready to support your migration every step of the way—making it fast and easy.

10. Travel internationally.

For agency personnel who travel internationally, the latest CALNET NextGen contract offers Verizon plans that streamline international use of agency phones.

---

Explore CALNET NextGen.

Contact your Verizon Account Manager to find out more about the specific services and plans we offer under CALNET NextGen.

verizon.com/cacontracts

